

Vincent Eavis

Director, Head of International Business Development & Sales,
Citigroup, Global Transactions Services, Commercial Cards

Vincent Eavis joined Citigroup in 1995 and is responsible for Citigroup Commercial Cards' sales, business development and account management activities in EMEA. In this capacity Vincent and his team works with the top 1500 companies globally, providing them with Proprietary International Corporate, Procurement and One card programmes.

Before Citigroup, Vincent worked at Diners' Club for five years, initially in credit management roles before eventually becoming head of business development. Prior to this he was at GE Capital for five years, where his roles included litigation manager, handling credit collection, and responsibility for GE's European operations centre and customer service.

Vincent believes that amongst the major contributions he wishes to make in the industry are allowing customers access to truly global and integrated solutions by means of forging strong and genuine partnerships with industry partners in the Travel Management (TMC) Companies and Expenses Management Companies.

Amongst Vincent's extra curricular activities and passions are his family, acting and classical music compositions.